

Late Night Talk Show

You have just been invited onto a late night talk show to talk about the latest book you have read.

1. Write down questions in the left-hand column of the BLM that you think the host of the talk show will ask you about the text you have read.

Tip: Think of questions that don't rely on a yes or no answer, but ones that will give you an opportunity to show everyone how much you know about the text you have read!

2. On the opposite side, write the answers you plan to give if you are asked these questions.
3. With a partner take on the roles of guest and talk show host and take turns asking and answering the questions that you have written.
4. Share your interview with your classmates.
